One of the major challenges of the moment is the incomplete understanding of the new concepts of advanced strategy including here the technological side and the influence that the latter has on the distribution of real power globally. In an age where classic wars seem to be a thing of the past, cyber security is a major asset from a geostrategic point of view. The evolutionary tendencies of the different aspects of global security from a cyber-context have generated innovative approaches in the form of cyber scaling of the elements of global Geostrategy.
